President J. W. Jones Honored at Banquet

Speeches and gifts were given Friday night in honoring Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones, Dr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Strong and Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wright at a dinner in the Union Building.

In honor of Dr. J. Gordon Strong, retiring chairman of the division of physical sciences, William Garrett, chairman of the biology department, spoke and presented Dr. Strong and his wife a silver bowl of yellow roses. Also present with the Strong's were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Strong, Kansas City, and their daughter, Mrs. Lyle Reidinger, Altona, Ia.

Ryland Milner, MSC athletic director, spoke in appreciation of R. T. Wright and presented him and his wife with a silver bowl of American Beauty roses.

Dr. Irene Mueller gave a talk honoring Dr. J. W. Jones, MSC president since 1945. She presented Dr. and Mrs. Jones a silver bowl with pink roses.

Special guests at the dinner were the MSC board of regents and their wives and State College deans and their wives. These dignitaries were seated at the head table.

Additional special guests were other members of the present faculty and their wives who were at MSC at the time Dr. Jones became president of the College. Previous to that time he had served as Dean of the Faculty for almost nine years. These guests were: Miss Bonnie Magill, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Valk, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. David Crozier, Mrs. Avis Graham, Miss Neva Ross, Miss Anna Gorsuch, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ringold and Dr. and Mrs. John Harr.

San Francisco Ballet To Perform Friday

Praised by the St. Paul Pioneer Press as "About as fine a company as the country can boast," and by the Austin, Texas American as "A splendid company, amply equipped with some first-rate dancers, a repertoire of fresh choreography works, handsomely mounted production, bright costumes, and an inventive sense of presentation," the San Francisco Ballet, scheduled for Lamkin Gym on March 13, will present three ballets "Caprice," "Divertissement D'Auber," and "Sinfonia".

"Caprice," choreographed by Lew Christensen, with sets and costumes by Tony Duquette is a colorful ballet revolving around a coquette's flirtations in the park with a private, a lieutenant, a captain, and a bearded, monocled, general who wins the girl and ends the dance with a beautiful waltz.

"Divertissement D'Auber" is a creation of the director, Lew Christensen, which was choreographed to show the virtuosity of the American dancer. It contains mid air turns, exciting leaps, and every step in the dancer's vocabulary.

the elusive favor of a fickle public? Why do educational institutions have to prove, by unconstitutional means, that they are not anti-religious or atheistic?

Tom O'Neill,
411 N. Mulberry.

Dear Sir:

In regard to the Blue Key questionnaire: Do I want a free day between the last day of classes and the first day of finals? My reply is Yes. A break between classes and finals is especially helpful if the student has a heavy load on either his last class day or his first final day. Occasionally, too, the teacher will give a test on the last day of class which may require the student to concentrate his studying upon the last few chapters rather than his preparing over-all for the final in that or another course. A free day in this respect would definitely aid the student.

Dear Editor:

Is religion in the United States in such a feeble and decadent condition of existence that it must find protection under the "motherly wing" of American public education? For that matter, is American public education so dependent on certain segments of the public good will that it must ignore the American constitutional concepts for a period of time each year? Is there not some conflict between the First Amendment to the United States Constitution, and the practice of certain educational institutions? The Missouri Constitution, Article I, sections six and seven, also prohibits the use of public funds for the furtherance of religion.

The use of state operated facilities for religious instruction has been ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States in the cases of Illinois ex rel. McCollum v. Board of Education, and Zorach v. Clausen. Yet in spite of the wishes of the High Court, certain educational institutions have chosen to ignore the Court's rulings.

The arbitrary and coercive methods by which Religious Emphasis week is conducted upon some campuses appalls me.

The mandatory dismissal of classes at the opening religious assembly, the bringing of clergymen into class sessions to lecture to students, are examples that clearly indicate a lack of respect for the individuals right to freedom of conscience. Evidently the students desire for academic learning must be subordinated to the administrations desire for "good" relations with the surrounding public. One wonders, why does American public education have to prostitute itself in order that it might purchase

Name Your Poison: Cigarettes, Cigars, Pipes

By Thomas Arko

Voluminous material on smoking has crossed this editor's desk — one item at a time (I have a very small desk). It is time that someone seriously satirized this problem.

The factions represented can be divided into three camps: the cigarette smokers, the pipe and cigar smokers, and the non-smokers.

One who smokes "cancer-sticks" or "coffin-nails" is definitely among the "in" group. He has discovered the joys of this exotic, mild narcotic and has found that he no longer feels ill-at-ease at cocktail parties where everyone else is smoking.

This vice has become a status symbol for people of all ages. Eight-year-old kids skinny-ing up the side of a cigarette machine to reach the coin slot is a common sight.

College students who smoke consume three packs a day to save the wrappers for the organization to which they belong, thereby hoping to win a hi-fi set or a Volkswagen from a (you guessed it) cigarette firm.

Older folks smoke to avoid going stir-crazy. It looks less ridiculous when one has a cigarette in one's hand than if one is twiddling one's thumbs.

The cigar-smoker and the pipe-smoker have, it seems, chickened out of the lung cancer race, but are still in the running for lip cancer. They got out before lung cancer set in, but they simply cannot break completely with the weed.

An old wives tale says that pipe-smokers are slow witted. You ask them a question and it touches off a ritual. First our pipe-smoker (supposedly) invariably puffs out his pipe, fills it, tamps down the tobacco, lights it three or four times, leans back and contemplates his navel as he puffs away and THEN he answers your question. This is absurd. As a confirmed pipe-smoker, I have answered questions with the fastest of the answerers.

My philosophy concerning smoking a pipe rather than cigarettes is: If it's a toss-up between a lung and a lip, I'll sacrifice the lip.

My favorite "smokie" (that's a short story about prospective cancer victims) deals with a man entering a drug store to buy a pack of cigarettes.

Customer: I'd like a pack of cigarettes, please.

Clerk: Filter-tip or plain?

Customer: Filter-tip.

Clerk: King size or regular?

Customer: King size.

Clerk: Box or soft-pack?

Customer: Soft pack, I guess.

Clerk: Menthol or plain?

Customer: Aw, forget it. Gimme a package of gum.

I don't think people should be pressured into quitting smoking. The facts are before them. If they accept them and quit, it's their prerogative. If they want to keep smoking, it's their own funeral — er, I mean it's up to them.

Any coward can give up smoking, but it takes a brave man to face lung cancer.

'Cat Wrestlers To Cedar Falls For NCAA

The MSC Bearcat wrestling team will leave for the NCAA College Division of Wrestling meet at Cedar Falls, Ia., Thursday, to compete against the elite of the college wrestling world.

Coach Jerry Landwer will take seven men to Cedar Falls. The seven sport a 44-5 composite record. Four of MSC's first-string grapplers are not eligible as the NCAA disallows freshmen competition.

Wrestling for MSC will be Ken Mallick, 4-0, 115-pound class; Harvey Hallum, 123-pound class, 17-0 in two years of dual competition; Allen Jensen, 130-pounds, 4-1; Arnold Thompson, 137-pounds, 5-1; Larry Kilmer, 147-pounds, 3-1; and Lonny Wieland and Allan Packer, who both have 10-1 records including six pins and nine victories in a row, will wrestle at 157 and 167-pounds respectively.

To win a weight class in the tournament, a wrestler will have to compete in three matches Friday and the same number Saturday. In some weight divisions, the wrestlers may also have to wrestle Thursday night.

Betas Edge Fat Daddies, 51-47

The Betas (ST) upset defending champions, the Fat Daddies (ST), 51-47, in the intramural title game in the Horace Mann gymnasium last week.

Last year the same two teams met for the crown with the Daddies romping to an easy victory. This year, however, a steady attack from all eight team members overcame a height advantage by the Daddies.

Victorious members include Chuck Nurek, Gary Foland, Tom Walton, Wayne Mains, Dick McBride, Cecil Bartan, Rich Woods, and Jim Mahoney.

Included will be track, baseball, tennis, and golf schedules.

Baseball Prospects Seem Bright for MSC 'Cats

Coach Burton Richey reports that 53 men reported for baseball tryouts this year, including several key returning lettermen.

Twelve returning lettermen lead the hopefuls. The returning lettermen are pitchers, Jim Sanders, Ron Brumley and Larry Messerli. An experienced battery will be available as Bernie Ricono will be returning behind the plate. Four infielders, Randy Wolcott, Bob Crawford, Ron Harris and Jim Jackson, will be working for infield positions. Strength in the outfield should be provided by Howard Rolfe, Gary Foland, Steve Croley, and service returnee Gary Shaw.

"Overall speed and team defense should improve this season, especially in the outfield," stated Coach Richey. The Bearcats will open the season on March 31 as they play

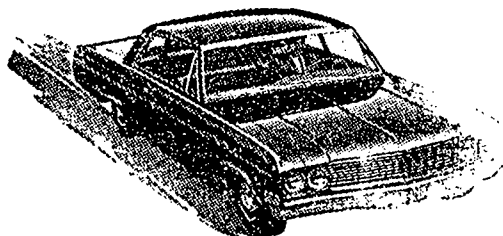

Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa at MSC. The remainder of the 1964 schedule is as follows:

MSC GRAD IN NAIA

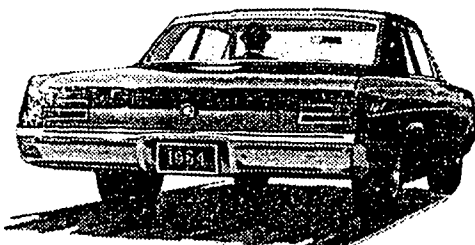

Ed Messbarger, St. Joseph, and an MSC graduate of 1956, is guiding his St. Mary's College basketball team from San Antonio, Tex., in the NAIA Tournament in progress in Kansas City.

Messbarger's team upset Central Connecticut, previously undefeated at 25-0, 64-62, in first round action. Before that, St. Mary's had edged East Texas in the district no. 4 playoff for the right to compete in the Kansas City tournament.
